

Investors United School of Real Estate announces annual scholarship to University of Baltimore

Full tuition grant will go to Merrick School of Business graduate

Reply to: cobey@abrightideaonline.com

Date: 5/18/2006 5:09:20 PM

Description:

BALTIMORE - Investors United School of Real Estate president Ian Charles Parrish has announced the school's award of a full scholarship to the University of Baltimore. The annual award will be granted to a deserving graduate of the Merrick School of Business.

"We [Investors United] want to support financial independence and prosperity in Baltimore through real estate investment education," says Parrish. "The Investors United Scholarship allows us to do both.

"In a typical year, Investors United members invest $10.5 million in urban revitalization. We also employ about 13,000 people and create hundreds of new homeowners. The scholarship to a University of Baltimore graduate is a logical next step."

The Investors United Scholarship will be managed through the University of Baltimore Educational Foundation, Inc., and will cover a full year's tuition for training in real estate investing.

Investors United School of Real Estate, the first and only professional school for real estate investing in America, is located at 6721 Harford Road in Baltimore. The school holds free classes every Tuesday. For information, visit InvestorsUnited.com.

###

Contact:

Cobey Dietrich

cobey@abrightideaonline.com

410-836-7180